

Case Planning & Discovery

"Case Planning & Discovery was immensely useful because it gave us the tools to anticipate steps in the progression of a case, select appropriate discovery methods and organize our case strategy at the beginning of a case, instead of playing 'whack-a-mole' with issues as they come up. I highly suggest it to any legal aid attorney, including those who have been around for some years."

- Michelle Fica,
Connecticut Legal Services

Center for Legal Aid Education
89 South Street, Suite 404
Boston, MA 02111
(phone) 617. 946. 4672
(fax) 617. 737. 1585

Case Planning & Discovery provides you with a systematic approach to analyzing and planning a case. Topic areas include legal and factual analysis, conducting depositions, evidentiary issues, and informal discovery. Altogether, this training is an excellent opportunity to hone your representational skills in a supportive and safe learning environment.

Who Should Enroll

This training is geared primarily toward newer attorneys.

What You Will Learn

- Legal and factual analysis
- Developing a theory of the case
- Planning formal and informal discovery
- Conducting depositions
- Compelling discovery
- Evidentiary issues
- Gathering evidence

For more information, please contact:
Jaime Berton
jberton@legalaideducation.org
617.946.4672 (ext. 112)

Or visit our website to register online:
www.legalaideducation.org

dates

Oct. 14-16, 2009

location

Wachusett Village Inn and Conference Center,
Westminster, MA

registration

Registration Deadline:
Sept. 25, 2009

Early Bird Registration:
Sept. 11, 2009

schedule

Day One

- Informal Discovery
- Case Planning

Day Two

- Written Discovery
- Deposition Overview
- Deposition Practice

Day Three

- Deposition Practice
- Special Issues in Discovery
- Evidentiary Issues

